That's because this format is called American odds, and it's only used i n the U.

American odds are centered around winning or wagering $100 on a given bet, thoug h you don't need to actually wager $100.

So if you're betting on the Yankees at -130, you need to risk $130 and will win $100 if New York wins the game (plus your original $130 back).

For every $1 risked on the Red Sox, you'd win $1.

With a point spread or another line like an over/under.
